(The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 10.—President Roosevelt put his Tennessee Valley program before congress today in a message asking rehabilitation of the Muscle Shoals, Alabama, power and nitrate plant.

He asked creation of a Tennessee Valley authority to supervise the development of power, flood control, forest conservation and improvement of agriculture.

"It is time," the President wrote,
"to extend planning to a wider field, in this instance comprehending in one great project many states directly concerned with the basin of one of our greatest rivers."

"If we are successful here we can march on, step by step, in a like development of other great natural territorial units within our borders."

Text of Message

"To the congress:
"The continued idleness of a great national investment in the Tennessee Valley leads me to ask congress for legislation necessary to enlist this project in the service of the people."

"It is clear that the Muscle Shoals development is but a small part of the potential public usefulness of the entire Tennessee river.

"Such use, if envisioned in its entirety, transcends mere power development."

"It enters the wide field of floor control, soil erosion, afforestation, elimination from agricultural use of marginal lands, and distribution and diversification of industry."

"In short, this power development of war days leads logically to national planning for a complete river watershed involving many states and the future lives and welfare of millions."

"It touches and gives life to all forms of human concerns."

"I, therefore, suggest to the Tennessee Valley authority—a corporation clothed with the power of government but possessed of a private enterprise."

"It should be charged with the broadest duty of planning for the proper use, conservation and development of the natural resources of the Tennessee river drainage basin and its adjoining territory for the general social and economic welfare of the nation."

CLEVELAND, April 10.—The second "s" in "compressibility" is a serious matter to Marshall Massey, 23.

He argued it with a friend who,
police said, became so insistent
"there's only one s," he stabbed Massey above the heart, possibly fatally, early today.

But, Massey was jubilant despite his wounds when told by physicians the "double s" was correct.

Illness Delays Their Wedding In France

The reported Betty Compton-James J. Walker marriage plans were somewhat delayed last week as a result of the illness of the former Broadway show girl. The couple recently filed notice of intention to wed in France where they have been staying since Walker resigned as mayor of New York during the hearing of the Seabury charges before Franklin D. Roosevelt, then governor of New York. Walker was divorced by his wife in Miami, Fla., last month.

Easter Rabbit Is Ready For Annual Visit and the Customary Egg HuntIf Weather's Right, He Will Make His Headquarters
At Centennial Park

The Easter Rabbit pays his annual visit to Salem Saturday, making his headquarters at Centennial park where he plans to hide hundreds of beautifully colored eggs to be found and eaten by boys and girls of the city.

In case of inclement weather eggs will be hidden at the Memorial building with more than 500 kiddies expected to participate in the hunt for them. J. M. Kelley, director of community activities here, announced today.

The Easter egg hunt has developed into an annual affair in Salem a long-awaited event by kiddies who every year chase behind trees

Pastor, Lodgemen
Laud Efforts of
Salvation Army

Additional testimonials to the Salvation Army were provided today by a Salem pastor and civic organizations in conjunction with the Army's emergency relief campaign which will be held here on April 18 to 22.

"In the present period of distress and want," testified Rev. Dayton B. Wright, rector of the Church of Our Saviour (Episcopal), "it seems to me that there is no international organization so well equipped to administer the physical as well as spiritual needs of those in want as the Salvation Army."

"Truly our Lord's words, 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me,' apply to it. The local chapter deserves the loyal support of every citizen in Salem."

Other testimonials.
Salem lodge No. 305, B. P. O. Elks: "We fully appreciate the work of the Salvation Army and what it has done to help the unfortunate who otherwise might be neglected or overlooked. The Army should be encouraged and should have the financial as well as the moral support of all organizations and individuals."

Salem Quota club: "The Salvation Army has done wonderful work among Salem's needy, both in meeting their physical wants and aiding them spiritually. Everything possible should be done to enable the Army to continue this activity."

Further illustrating the work of the Salem corps, officials tell of the assistance rendered a family, poverty-stricken after the death of an invalid husband and father. Necessary food was given members while rental for a home was also provided. Boys have been prevented from dropping out of school and have been given part-time jobs to aid at home.

INQUIRY CONVENESThree Survivors of Akron Disaster On Hand As Probe Begins

(The Associated Press)
LAKEHURST, N. J., April 10.—A naval court to inquire into the wrecking of the airship Akron in which 73 lives were lost off the New Jersey coast convened today and recessed immediately to go into executive session.

The court convened just after word had been received of the recovery of the body of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of aeronautics of the U. S. navy and one of the 73 men lost when the airship crashed at sea a week ago.

Found Off N. Jersey Coast
The body was found 35 miles off the New Jersey coast.

Just a week ago tonight the Akron set out from here on her last flight.

Lieutenant Commander Ralph G.
Penney of Washington, the judge advocate, in announcing the recess, said its purpose was to permit the court to decide upon the procedure to be followed when the order in which matters in connection with the disaster would be considered.

Lieutenant Commander H. V.
Wylie, the only officer saved after the Akron crash, sat at a desk at the left of the platform reserved for the court. Richard Deal and Moody Edwin, the other two survivors, stood behind him. They were in uniform.

Fifth Body Recovered
New York, April 10.—Recovery of the body of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics who was lost with the airship Akron, was reported to naval headquarters here today.

The admiral's body was the fifth to be recovered from the sea since the Akron crashed off the Jersey coast last Tuesday morning. One member of the crew taken alive from the sea shortly after the crash died on the rescue ship. There are only three survivors of the 76 men who sailed on the airship's last voyage.

Knights Templar Ready For Annual
Holy Week Events

Salem commandery No. 42, Knights Templar, is preparing this week to observe the only days on which knights appear in public in full uniform, namely, Good Friday and Easter Sunday.

Rev. R. D. Walter, pastor of First Presbyterian church, has extended an invitation to all Knights Tem-plar and their families to worship with his congregation at 7:30 p.
m. Friday. The knights will meet at Masonic temple at 7 p. m. and march to the church.

The second public appearance will be at the Easter service at the Methodist Episcopal church in Lisbon at 11 a. m. Sunday. Rev. Charles N. Church will preach the sermon.

After church service a dinner will be served in the Lisbon Masonic temple by the Eastern Stars of that city. All knights and their families are invited.

James H. Thurston of Lisbon is commander of Salem commandery.

Births Take Lead
In Year's Record

LISBON, April 10.—Official vital statistics for the last fiscal year disclose 1,524 births in Columbiana county and 1,147 deaths. Births showed an increase in every district in the county except here, where deaths exceeded births by three, there being 106 deaths and 103 births during the 12-month period.

The county record shows:
Salem, deaths, 230, births, 281;
Lisbon, deaths, 106, births, 103;
Columbiana, deaths, 56, births, 64;
Salem, deaths, 56, births, 66;
Hannover, deaths, 19, births, 31;
East Liverpool, deaths, 39, births, 54;
Rogers, deaths, 19, births, 40;
Wellsville, deaths, 108, births, 162;
Leetonia, deaths, 32, births, 50;
East Palestine, deaths, 86, births, 104;
New Waterford, deaths, nine, births, 10;
Washington, deaths, nine, births, 17;
Homewood, deaths, 19, births, 23;
Bayard, deaths, 15, births, 30.

This record shows there were 374 more births in the county than deaths during the period covered by the annual report.

FULTON NAMES
CONSERVATORS62 Unlicensed State Banks
To Be Reorganized or Liquidated

(The Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 10.—Sixty-two unlicensed state banks with combined deposits of $48,980,401 were taken over today by conservators appointed by State Superintendent of Banks Ira J. Fulton.

The appointments were made under provision of new banking laws intended to speed reorganization or liquidation of banks which were unable to qualify for normal banking after the general banking holiday.

A conservator previously had been named for one other state bank and four have been liquidated since the holiday. Fulton said additional conservators would be selected from time to time for some of the 75 other unlicensed state institutions.

Three hundred and forty-three state banks and approximately 240 Federal Reserve member banks, some of the latter state-chartered,
have reopened for normal business.

Superintendent Fulton, in telegrams last night, instructed the conservators to take possession of the business and property of the 62 banks and to list persons, firms, corporations or associations having possession of the bank's assets.

A certified statement of the condition of each bank at this time was requested by the superintendent.
During the period of reorganization, the banks may receive checks only for collection. Deposits made since the banking holiday must be kept segregated for payment on demand.
New accounts will be handled in a similar manner.

The banking laws permitting appointment of conservators were passed by the legislature on recommendation of Gov. White after similar emergency legislation was approved.

MIDDLETON TOT
KILLED BY CAR
NEAR HIS HOMEIrvin Hall, 3, Son of Mr.
and Mrs. Allan J. Hall,
Is VictimREPORT CHILD
DIED INSTANTLYAdin Harman, Leetonia, Is Exonerated by Members of Family

Irvin H. Hall, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan J. Hall, of Middleton was instantly killed when he was struck by an automobile while playing in front of his parent's home at 6 p. m. Sunday.

The boy sustained a fractured skull, a broken shoulder and other injuries.

Leetonia Man Exonerated
The automobile was driven by Adin Harman of Leetonia who was exonerated by members of the family who witnessed the accident.

Coroner Ernest R. Sturgis of Wells-ville was to conduct an inquest at Columbiana today.

Irvin, his older brother Ralph,
and other children had been jumping rope in the yard of the Hall home. The two brothers ran into the road Irvin following Ralph, when the latter suddenly ran in front of Harman's machine.

Attempting to avoid striking Ralph, Harman, who said he did not see Irvin, swerved his automobile to the right of the highway, the machine striking the younger brother as it neared a ditch.

Harman, accompanied by his wife, immediately stopped his automobile, picked the tot up and rushed him to Columbiana for medical attention. The child is said by doctors, however, to have died instantly.

Born in Salem

Irvin was born in Salem on May 25, 1930 and next month would have reached his third birthday.
Besides his parents he is survived by two sisters, Mary and Mable, his brother Ralph, and a grandmother, Mrs. Anna Hall, all residing at the home in Middleton.

His parents formerly resided in Salem where the father was employed by the National Sanitary.

Funeral service will be held at the Friends meeting house in Middleton at 2 p. m. Tuesday. Burial will be in the Friends cemetery.

Parents request that friends
please omit flowers.

O. N. TOMLINSON
DIES IN WESTSuccumbs Suddenly At His Home In Redon-
do Beach, Calif.

Oliver Negus Tomlinson, formerly of Salem, died suddenly Saturday afternoon at his home in Redondo Beach, Calif., Salem relatives have been advised. He was in his 69th year.

Born in Jefferson county, son of Mr. and Mrs. Comley Tomlinson, he came as a boy with his parents to Salem and spent his early life here.
For many years he was employed in the office of the Buckeye Engine Co. and was one of the most popular young men in Salem.

Live In Denver
About 30 years ago he and his family went to Denver, Colo., where they spent a year. Returning to Salem, he was employed as bookkeeper in the office of the Grove chewing gum factory for a year. The family then returned to the west and soon removed to Redondo Beach, Calif., where they have since resided.

For 28 years Mr. Tomlinson had been employed by the Huntington Improvement Co. of Los Angeles, in charge of their interests in Redondo. He took an active part in civic affairs there, having served as mayor, president of the board of education, president of the Chamber of Commerce and in many other capacities as a civic leader.

His sudden death came as a shock to Salem relatives as he had not been ill.

Leaves Widow, Three Children
While a resident of Salem Mr.
Tomlinson was united in marriage with Miss Emma Hannay, who survives with three children: Mrs.
Edith Kikok of Los Angeles; Mrs.
Ruth Witt of Manhattan Beach, Calif., and Walter Tomlinson of Redondo Beach.

Other survivors are one brother and two sisters: Lindley Tomlinson and Mrs. W. A. Hawley of Salem, and Mrs. A. D. Woolman of Bell flower, Calif.

Scouts Will Camp

On Aetna Street Is Ransacked

Salem patrolmen experienced an unusually busy weekend, investigating burglaries of two homes and several other minor thefts. Police Chief Ralph Stoffer reported today.

Clothing and an undetermined amount of money were taken by burglars who Saturday night ransacked the residence of J. A. Armstrong, 843 Aetna st.

The burglary occurred between 7:30 and 9:45 p. m. Buffet and dreser drawers were ransacked, clothing and other goods strewn on the floor in almost every room.

The burglars also searched clothes presses in their apparent hunt for money, then took a small amount of cash, two suits of underwear, a pair of shoes, an overcoat, woman's coat and other articles.
Stoffer reported.

Patrolmen Homer Veon and Neil Gaunt and Merchant Officer James Hasey investigated the case late Saturday night.

Burglars also entered the warehouse of Mrs. John Oana, 468 South Elsworth ave., Saturday night, obtaining goods valued by the owner at $39.50.

Mrs. Oana said entrance was effected by breaking a lock on the front door. One rug, valued at $30, two pillows, a saw and hatchet were taken. Patrolman William Reed-don investigated.

Meats and groceries valued at $5 were taken from the automobile owned by Pat Driscoll of Leetonia Saturday night. Driscoll had parked his auto on South Elsworth ave.
after shopping here.

License plates 310-765 were stolen from the automobile owned by P. J.
Paxson, East State st. Saturday night. A bicycle was stolen at the Votaw home, West State st., Saturday.

NOW FOR THE MACON

It will be advisable to look upon the navy's second airship, the Macon, philosophically. Whatever shock to confidence the disaster to the Akron may have given individual Americans, they must remember this: Men who will trust their lives to the ship are not afraid. It is well to bear in mind, also, that the ship, if found acceptable after it has been tested, will be a national possession.

It is an extremely valuable piece of property, a large part of whose value is derived from the people's faith in its ability to do the things it has been designed to do. The navy department, the men who have promoted the building of rigid airships and the crew which will operate it realize that confidence suffered severely from the Akron disaster. They will try to rebuild that confidence.

Significantly, in the evidence produced so far covering the Akron incident, there is no conclusive proof that this type of ship is impractical if handled properly. That is not an indictment of the men who went to their death in it, but an observation on the fact that operation of rigid airships is a highly specialized business. Perhaps it is true, as has been said the last few days, that the Germans are the only people who really understand the art. If it is true, it will be changed. Americans are learning.

They know more now than they knew before the Akron accident. If they had nothing else, they would have an added incentive to caution. Conditions under which both the Akron and the Shenandoah were destroyed indicate plainly that a storm center is one place where claims of safety for rigid airships cannot be sustained. There is nothing surprising in that; the stresses inflicted by a storm's fury are beyond calculation.

The Macon will be launched for the first of its trial flights this coming Thursday. This is a flight which would have been made successfully and without any more than nominal attention had it not been for the tragic accident which befell the Akron. The people owe it to themselves to resume that faith as fully as possible.

COME ONE, COME ALL

The governments of the world are coming to Washington. They will have a common purpose—better economic understanding with this hugely productive debtor nation. It is both an honor and an obligation they will pay by their visits.

Extension of the Roosevelt slogan of quick action into the international field is welcomed by Americans. Subdued temporarily are the shouts and protests of those who would have the United States withdraw into the long shadows of its claimed self-sufficiency.

It is the President's dream and his countrymen's hope that he will be able to meet with representatives of the governments invited to consult with Washington as business men met with each other to compromise differences and formulate programs. Perhaps out of it all will come a new understanding of the best way to reach the objectives of enlightened selfishness—greater prosperity for all nations and all people.

The attempt to meet singly with representatives of all nations with which the United States has diplomatic relations is something new in methods of diplomacy. It remains to be seen whether or not it will be more satisfactory than group discussions, but remembering the atmosphere of repression which usually hangs over those meetings, is not hard to imagine that President Roosevelt's plan may be far more successful.

He has asked congress for power to make individual agreements. This is an attempt to overcome a notorious American weakness in diplomatic negotiations—the frequent refusal of the senate to ratify treaties made by the President and official representatives of the government. Obviously, if President Roosevelt is refused in the request he has made, the prospects for success will be halved and quartered.

In effect, Mr. Roosevelt is asking for power to deal with another emergency even greater than the recent banking condition. Unless the people protest in such a way as to show plainly that they no longer are willing to let him exercise extraordinary powers, congress should yield to the pressure of popular concerns and temporarily abdicate another of its jealously guarded functions. Under the circumstances—under any circumstances some claim—the President is better qualified to reach tariff agreements than unwieldy groups in congress.

What Others Say

THE "SEE AMERICA" YEAR

There are several reasons for believing that foreign countries are going to be greatly disappointed this year over the volume of tourist trade from the United States.

The first and very simple reason is that the depression isn't over and the average American is less fixed than ever to go places.

Another reason is that the growing realization there is much to interest anyone in this country, has been suddenly stimulated by the impending Century of Progress exposition in Chicago. This great world's fair will be an event of a life time.

It does not behoove anyone to miss it.

The opportunity to visit the Chicago world's fair will be seized upon by many for a visit to the many scenic spots in the Middle West and West Yellowstone Park should be the mecca for an unusual tourist migration this year.

We should not discount the effect which good beer will have in inducing many to stay in their own country. Each summer thousands of Americans have toured Canada because of the personal liberty afforded in glass of good wholesome beer. That liberty will be vouchsafed them at home this year.

And should we ignore the fact that there is a growing hostility to France in this country, an antipathy that was aggravated by the French government's failure to pay its war debt obligation last December? If France hopes to improve her fiscal position at the expense of 100,000 American tourists spending an average of $800 each (their own estimate) she is doomed to disappointment—Toledo Times.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, April 11

The lunar aspects bearing rule on the affairs of this day may be presaged as of minor importance. Routine matters may move along with fairly rapid progress and with a degree of enterprise but resort may be had to tact and diplomacy in intriguing matters rather than direct method. Be careful in signing all manner of writings and documents. Also safeguard the finances from small losses.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fairly active year, with some energy and spirit, but largely things may move in routine grooves. It would be well to use tact and strategy rather than direct measures in composing difficulties or in promoting new propositions with mergers or secret bodies. Also sign all papers with precaution. A child born on this day may be fairly active, energetic and aggressive, but may incline to shrewd and clever methods of achievement. It should be trained in integrity and straightforward ways and principles.

Facts On Undulant Fever

During recent months an unusual number of cases of "Malta breaks" have been traced to a germ called "brucella abortus." This ailment is identical with "Mediterranean fever," "Undulant fever" is another name given to this disease.

The germ responsible for Malta fever attacks cattle, sheep, goats and pigs. It is transmitted to human beings who care for these animals or who engage in slaughtering them. In most instances the disease may follow the drinking of infected goat's milk or cow's milk. It is only recently that other causes have been determined.

At one time undulant fever was a common disease along the Mediterranean coast, the Rio Grande river in the United States, and particularly in those sections where goat's milk was used exclusively. The disease is no longer confined to these districts, but may be encountered in other parts of North America.

Mistaken for Typhoid
The early symptoms of this disease closely resemble those of typhoid fever. Indeed, in many cases, it is mistaken for typhoid fever. The afflicted person suffers profuse sweating, fever, pain and swelling of the joints. It may resemble a simple cold or gripe, but for days the fever rises daily and the trouble persists for a long time.

Undulant fever is not now a particularly serious disease. It is annoying, of course, and may become chronic. It interferes with the general health and nutrition of the sufferer. At one time it was much more serious than it is now, especially in localities of the world where hygiene and sanitary measures were neglected. It was always a menace to the health of the farmer and of the general public. Great progress has been made, however, in the cure and prevention of this disease.

The germ that produces undulant fever is destroyed by heat, hot water or by the use of mild antiseptic. Farmers, butchers, cattlemen, sheepmen, woolworkers and others whose work demands contact with diseased animals can be protected from this infection by the wearing of gloves and the sterilization of their implements.

Be Sure Milk Is Pure

The cattle are to be inspected periodically and when signs of the disease are found to be present, isolation and other precautions are taken. In localities where undulant fever is present, it is important that the milk be carefully pasteurized.

Often, as I have intimated, this disease may follow the drinking of goat's milk or cow's milk. Raw milk from diseased cows produces undulant fever. Where the milk is pasteurized, no ill effects are observed.

The danger of undulant fever can be avoided by careful supervision of cattle and milk supplies, and by refusing to accept food or milk that is handled under unsanitary conditions. Never drink milk unless you are sure of its purity. If in doubt, boil before using.

NEW YORK April 10.—Diary of a modern Peppys: Up at my petty whop-whams and cheered by a rousing letter from Bob Davis, the pamphleteer. And a Roxy Cooper came with imitations of a store keeper he met in the Arctic Circle and of his yipping fox terrier, Fanny, as hilarious as ever I heard.

So abroad, falling in with an aged and angry neighbor stamping to a dentist, saying: "Listen my new teeth click when I walk." And they did. Then to the Robert Rubins and talked to Rosamond Pinchoet. Oaa Munson, Vincent Youmans, Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett and James Forbes.

In the evening a buffet at Sadie Murray's to welcome Gloria Swanson and Michael Farmer. Among others came the Harry Bernays, Antonio Scotti, Mary Lewis, Marilyn Miller, Paul Frawley, Eddie Foy, Jr. and Clifton Webb. So home, reading "Cities of Many Men," by H. C. Chatfield-Taylor, until near dawn.

At the Actors' Dinner Club, the Rialto's most appealing charity the other night, the hostesses for the evening were Christine MacDonald, as lovely and charming as in the days when she starred in "Spring Maid" and "Miss Hook of Holland" at the Globe. Among so many stage "garlands that fell forgo," Miss MacDonald appeared in wondrous bloom. She retired at the peak of her career, the most loved actress of her time, to travel and devote her life to an equally attractive daughter.

Among reasons for Damon Runyon so ably skirting the dazle of the White Way to imprison in his fiction is his nearness to the effulgence. While he has an apartment in the hotel proper, he also rents the penthouse, which provides not only a workshop but recreation ground for his 13-year-old Pekinese.

Personal nomination for the most effacing of modern composers—Jerome Kern.

Jerome Kern, by the way, sold his enormous collection of first editions, for which he paid $250,000, for $1,000,000 during the closing days of the boom. Today it is not likely a buyer could be found for $50,000. Mr. Kern wanted to provide an income that would establish him securely for life. One wonders how he came out. So many who sold at top market to invest in "gilt edge" securities fared little better than the rest of us.

Fred Stone's youngest daughter, Carol, has shown no inclination to follow in the illustrious footsteps of her father or sisters, Dorothy or Paula. While studying music, languages and dramatic art, she is doing so solely so as a student. She has not the slightest interest in the stage as a career or entertainment. Fred Stone drops in at the Lambs daily and one of his daughters meets him out front later to motor home to Forest Hills. Few theatrical families have clung to the delightful intimacies that mark the home life of the Stones.

THE CHALLENGE OF LOVE

by WARWICK DEEPIING

SYNOPSIS

Young Dr. John Wolfe arrives at the quaint town of Navestock to become Dr. Montague Threadgold's assistant. Though shabby of dress, the young doctor's bearing commands respect. Dr. Threadgold is affable but his wife, who judges from outward appearance, considers Wolfe a "raw hawk of a man" and treats him coldly. Sir George Griegs arrives with a dislocated shoulder. He is infuriated over Dr. Threadgold's clumsy treatment and turns to young Wolfe who skillfully sets the shoulder. Later, Dr. Threadgold tells his wife that Wolfe has some ability but is a little forward. Dr. Threadgold attends the prosperous patients and assigns his assistant to the poor section of town. The young physician realizes the pitiable plight of these people in the hands of a bungling doctor.

CHAPTER SEVEN

It seemed that his first impressionist sketch was to have the details blackened in that morning with heavy and emphatic lines. In three more cases Wolfe found that old Threadgold had blundered badly. The picture of the plump, spruce, affable little man kept jiggling before Wolfe's eyes as he realized how people were doctored in these Navestock alleys. He began to get a surer grip of Dr. Threadgold's character. He could imagine this soft and incompetent little man pottering here and there with affable indifference, bungling gently, too easily satisfied with the things of life to realize perhaps that he was bungling. How did a man come to such a state? Wolfe, with all his grim and almost fanatical thoroughness, could hardly glimpse the psychology of the thing. General cynicism! He supposed such a state of mind existed. And in such a town as this! And it was here that another side-glimpse of understanding struck slantwise across his consciousness. Ignorance and cynical indifference may produce identical results, and the dirt and the insanity squall of these Navestock lanes were facts to be laid at somebody's door. Who was responsible? Who owned these rat holes in the river town? Wolfe asked himself these questions, and in the asking the beaming face of Dr. Threadgold assumed another meaning. He remembered the good lady's remarks in the drawing-room over night. Old Sir Joshua Kermody was her ideal—was he? And Navestock was the most conservative of towns! Faith! His nostrils contracted as he followed his Sam past a slaughter-house yard that was an abomination even in winter. He turned into Bread Street, and stopped to glance at Dr. Threadgold's list and to consult with Master Sam. Bread Street ended at the river in a narrow old red brick house that gave room for only one child to pass at a time. At this moment the bridge happened to be choked with a group of children who had gathered round a girl who was wheeling a couple of infants in a very battered "pram." A straight road bordered with willows cut across the meadows on the other side of the river, and a boy on a black pony was cantering along it towards the bridge.

The mannikin (a boy of 12 dressed like a dandy of 30) switched the urchin as the pony cantered past.

Wolfe, who was looking towards the river, saw the boy on the pony brandish a switch and ride straight at the bridge as though he were charging the crowd of children there. They scattered like rabbits, the girl with the perambulator making a dash for Bread Street, the iron wheels bumping over the cobbles. One youngster refused to budge, standing sturdily with his back to the parapet, his fists thrust into his trousers pockets. The boy on the pony slashed this upholder of liberty across the face with his switch as his pony cantered past. Bread Street was a dirty street, pitted with large puddles, and about thirty yards from where Wolfe stood a little servant girl in a clean print frock was picking her way over the cobbles. The boy on the black pony saw another chance of amusing himself. He made his pony swerve, and cantering close to the girl when she was on the edge of a puddle, splashed the muddy water over her dress.

Wolfe stepped out into the road. The mannikin on the black pony came cantering up the street, glancing back once or twice to laugh at the servant girl's rueful face. He was dressed like any dandy of thirty, in neat little trousers, a green waistcoat, a well-cut coat, and a high hat. A gold watch chain and gold seals showed on his waistcoat. The child was not more than twelve years old, and yet had all the airs and assurance of a very complacent man. His flat and colourless face with its faded blue eyes and impudent nose had a queer resemblance to the face of some old rook.

The boy rode straight at Wolfe, waving him aside with his silver-handled switch. "You, there, out of the way." He looked greatly astonished when Wolfe caught the pony's bridle and pulled the beast up. The little gloved hand raised itself threateningly, but the man's eyes met the boy's, and the switch fell cowed. "Hadden't you better ride a little more quietly, Master Tommy?"

The turning on of the spigot of 3.2 percent legal beer last week caused considerable comment and conjecture about the possible stimulus that business will derive from this new industry. Underneath the north of propaganda engendered by repeal enthusiasts, we find conflicting estimates and statistics, none of which can claim unerring accuracy because of changed conditions from pre-prohibition days. Perhaps the nation has developed an appetite for hard liquor that will be little satisfied with 3.2 percent beer. On the other hand, the prohibition era may have developed a new market for brewers among the countless thousands who never drank alcoholic beverages before the enactment of the 18th amendment.

Hope is aroused that the farmer will benefit by substantial increase in the demand for cereals but in the olden days less than 2 percent of our grain production was consumed by brewers and distillers. The house ways and means committee estimated that 300,000 employees would be required for the making and distribution of beer alone. Other estimates run as high as 1,500,000 new jobs to be created. The analyst, however, would tell you that in pre-prohibition days brewers and distillers together did not give employment to over 265,000 men. F. W. Dodge Corporation estimates a $65,000,000 initial outlay for the modernization of old plants and the building of new ones. Other figures run as high as $400,000,000 for the complete rehabilitation of the industry.

Discounting the more optimistic estimates, as we may, the fact remains that the stalemate of business has been broken by the return of beer and consequent releasing of orders in various lines of industry. Orders for hops, barley, bottles, bottle caps, kegs, cases, labels, refrigerators, and various items of brewing equipment have been released. "Printer's Ink" estimates that $13,000,000 will be spent the first year for advertising. If we may assume that the spiral of deflation has been completed, this new activity may prove to be the impulse that will start the wheels of industry.

Due to the willingness of the public to speculate on any new activity, there has been considerable interest in brewing stocks and in stocks of accessory companies. This speculative psychology may continue until earnings reports give an opportunity to make a true appraisal of the possibilities of these companies. The old, experienced, well managed breweries will undoubtedly show profitable operations in the future as they did in pre-prohibition days, although taxation and restrictive regulations may reduce considerably the margin of profit. Certain accessory companies will unquestionably profit from the constantly recurring demand for their products and perhaps among the accessory companies in the safest field for speculation.

Conviction of Mann Affirmed by Court

NEW YORK, April 10.—The United States circuit court of appeals today affirmed the conviction of Conrad H. Mann, Frank E. Hering and Bernard C. McGuire on the conspiracy charge in the Eagles lottery case. Conviction on substantive charge, shipment of lottery tickets in interstate commerce, was reversed.

Assistant United States Atty. Louis Mead Treadwell said that the three men would not be again brought to trial. Reversal of the conviction on the substantive charge will make no difference in the sentence of Hering, and will operate only to reduce the fines of Mann and McGuire from $11,000 to $10,000. Prison sentences—a year and a day for McGuire, five months for Mann and four months for Hering—will stand unchanged.

TODAY'S SHOW MYSTERIOUS BALL ROLLS UPHILL

I SAW A MAGICIAN MAKE A BALL ROLL UPHILL LAST NIGHT...WITHOUT TOUCHING IT. HE WAS SIMPLY WONDERFUL

WHAT SHE SAW—
THE PERFORMER MAKES A BALL DEFY GRAVITY AND ROLL UP AN INCLINE AT HIS BIDDING. IT PAUSES... ROLLS DOWN... ROLLS UP AGAIN... OBEYING EVERY ORDER OF THE MAGICIAN.

DID HE DO IT BY RADIO REMOTE CONTROL OR THOUGHT WAVES?

THAT'S THE BUNK GRACE HERES THE REAL LOW-DOWN---

THE MAGICIAN DIDN'T HAVE ANYTHING TO DO WITH MAKING THE BALL PERFORM. THERE WAS A CONTORTIONIST INSIDE IT. BY SHIFTING HIS WEIGHT IN THE BALL HE MADE IT GO.

MY GOODNESS BUT YOU'RE SMART, JOE. WONT YOU HAVE A CIGARETTE?

EXCUSE ME. I DON'T LIKE YOUR BRAND

THAT'S ANOTHER ILLUSION. DON'T YOU KNOW THAT IT'S THE TOBACCO THAT COUNTS? HERE, HAVE ONE OF MY CAMELS.

BUT ISN'T THIS THE MILDDEST KIND?

JOE, YOUR CAMEL IS MILD AND I LOVE THE TASTE, TOO.

IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW ISN'T IT?

CAMELS are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. They are mild...easy on the throat. They give you more pleasure. Try Camels.

No tricks—just costlier tobaccos in Camels

The Girl's Name Was Not Adeline At All

CHICAGO, April 10—This may be something of a shock to any quartet where members hoist a stein of beer and burst into "Sweet Adeline."

The girl's name the author had in mind wasn't Adeline at all. It was Rosalie.

Edward Fitzmaurice, director of the music library of one of Chicago's largest music houses, said it was Rosalie that Richard H. Gerard was thinking of when he wrote the words to the famous song in 1902.

But, said Fitzmaurice, nobody seemed to like the piece and Gerard couldn't get anyone to pen a melody for it until the late Harry Armstrong came along. Finally a New York publishing house consented to publish a few free copies for singers provided Gerard would forget about Rosalie and change to Adeline.

That was in 1903.

And now publishers are on their second million copies.

Select Campers

CINCINNATI, April 10—Selection of Hamilton county's quota of 800 men for the federal conservation corps from a crop of 700 applicants was begun today.

Today's Pattern

FOR SIZES 36 TO 46

Pattern 2584

What the well-dressed matron should wear... the model sketched today decides that question in a very pleasing manner. The dainty pointed lace vestee and pointed skirt seaming are slenderizing and the shoulder capes are gracefully flared to further narrow the silhouette. Note small view for choice of back treatments. Printed sheer crepe or cottons would be ever so delightful for this model.

Pattern 2584 may be ordered only in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 5-8 yards 39 inch fabric and one-half yard 36 inch lace. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with pattern.

Send for the Anne Adams Fashion book. It contains 32 colorful pages of lovely Paris-inspired models for every sewing need, and shows how to be chic at every hour of the day. Every style is practical, and easy to make. There are models for the larger figure, and pages of delightful junior and kiddie styles. Lovely lingerie, and accessory patterns, too.

clothed with the necessary power to carry these plans into effect. Its duty should be the rehabilitation of the Muscle Shoals development and the coordination of it with the wider plan.

"Many hard lessons have taught us the human waste that results from lack of planning. Here and there a few wise cities and counties have looked ahead and planned. But our nation has just grown."

"It is time to extend planning to a wider field, in this instance comprehending in one great project many states directly concerned with the basin of one of our greatest rivers."

"This in a true sense is a return to the spirit and vision of the pioneer. If we are successful here we can march on, step by step, in the development of other great natural territorial units within our borders."

Jungle Invasion Is Ended Abruptly

CLEVELAND, April 10—The faithfulness of a native interpreter brought an abrupt end to the recent expedition into the Mato Grosso jungles of Brazil in search of Col. H. P. Fawcett, missing British explorer.

Problems of the search were related by Nathaniel R. Rogers, who led the expedition. With him were Matthew Knapke, 23, of Lakewood, a Cleveland suburb where Rogers also lives, the interpreter and four native pack bearers.

In the jungles 45 days, they went 1200 miles into the interior hunting for Colonel Fawcett, who disappeared in 1936 while seeking a lost civilization.

They were gone about a month, Rogers said when they discovered rifle cartridges missing. More losses—a compass, blankets and pistol cartridges—were discovered each day. They solved the mystery when they caught the interpreter sneaking out of camp with a load of supplies.

They sent the interpreter back to Rio De Janeiro and left the jungles.

Gas Bombs Are Used In Zanesville Battle

(By Associated Press)

ZANESVILLE, O., April 10—Ten gas bombs were tossed back and forth between pistol shots in the hour long siege that enabled police to capture Harry Hazen, 25, yesterday.

Hazen himself was wounded perhaps fatally in the battle that started soon after he allegedly shot Ed Greenway, 49, during a quarrel in the Greenway home. Both were slain. The abortion men and physicians said they might die.

Milton Stotts, 41, city detective who aided the capture, was wounded seriously but was expected to recover.

Several hundred persons watched as the officers tossed tear gas bombs into the room in the Greenway home where Hazen had barricaded himself. They saw several of the bombs come flying back out before Charles Ellis, 22, a volunteer aid to police, silenced Hazen's protests with a shot from a home next door.

Judge Asks Delay In Mortgage Action

LIEBON, April 10—Acting as a recommendation of the Columbiana County Farm and Home Protective Committee, Judge W. F. Lones has requested that action in a foreclosure action filed by the First State bank against John C. Liggett and others be held in abeyance.

In addition to an action in foreclosure, the same plaintiff had entered suit against Liggett for money.

In both actions the court said, "in compliance with the request of the Columbiana County Farm and Home Protective Committee, leave to answer by the defendant is extended for an indefinite period, and until further order and notice."

SCHOOL NEWS AND VIEWS

Interesting Items For Students, Teachers and Parents

By RALPH LONG, Jr.

A volume of 20 books entitled, "Messages and Papers of the President," was donated to the Salem High school library by Mrs. Ora Lakn recently.

This volume of books is regarded as a great help to history and public speaking students.

Six Teachers Reading Circle books were recently added to the library. They are "Ways to Teach English" by Blai del; "Adventurous America" by Mims; "Reading Activities in the Primary Grades" by Storm and Smith; "The Teacher" by Porter; "The Psychology of the Elementary School" by Wheat, and "The Marks of an Educated Man" by Wiggam.

These books are on the Ohio Teachers Reading Circle book list for the years of 1931 and 1932.

William L. Deming, of the class of '32, donated "Our Wonderful Land of Bureaucracy" by James M. Beck.

In one of the front pages of the book Mr. Deming writes: "To the Library of the Salem High school. 'This book is given with the hope and belief that students of American History will be, by its perusal, enlightened on many phases of United States government activities which should be understood by all taxpayers—in fact, by every American citizen.'

The author's experience in congress and the department of justice has fully equipped him with a thorough knowledge of his subject."

Committees Take Up Finance Programs

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., April 10—The task of formulating taxation, poor relief and school financing programs to be considered by the legislature when it reconvenes May 13, will get under way tonight when two special joint committees hold their first meeting.

The committees were named before the assembly began its six-week recess and it is probable the legislature will require at least a month to act finally on the various programs, which must provide means of balancing the state budget as well as lessening the tax burden on property.

While the special committees swing into action, the senate judiciary committee will meet again to consider numerous bills, which failed of passage prior to the recess.

Meanwhile, Governor White during the week is expected to sign numerous minor bills passed by the legislature. Most of the more important measures have been approved by the chief executive.

Trustees Relected At Millport Church

MILLPORT, O., April 10—At the annual congregational meeting of Bethesta Presbyterian church at which the Rev. D. S. Whitaker presided, H. S. Fife, S. V. Brown and Walter Stewart were elected trustees for the ensuing term. Emanuel J. Cox was elected treasurer.

E. D. Emerick and Lawrence H. Cleveland were elected elders each for three year terms. Other elders are J. M. Brown, two years, with W. J. King and John Bonnell for one year.

Reports were presented by Treasurer E. J. Cox for the congregation; Mrs. Margaret McKarns, Women's Missionary Society; Foster Brown, C. E. Society; Thomas Brown Jr., for the Bethesta church cemetery association.

E. J. Grubbs, treasurer of the Men's Club and Mrs. R. R. Brown, of the W. W. W. G. Club read reports.

Long Lost Canvas By Harlow Is Found

CHICAGO, April 10—When Miss Gerda Ahim wiped away the film deposited on a canvas by Father Time she brought to light a portrait of Lord Byron by George Henry Harlow, missing for more than a century, she said today.

The picture was brought to Miss Ahim, who is engaged in the business of restoring "time-dimmed" paintings, by a client who bought it in an old furniture shop.

"There can be no doubt about the authenticity," she said. "My client picked it up in an obscure shop dealing in old furniture. The price, I understand, was only a few dollars, but the canvas is probably worth $2,500."

Youth Is Victim Of Auto Accident

(By Associated Press)

ASHLAND, O., April 10—Lawrence Brechenrich, 19, died in a hospital here early today from injuries received last night when the automobile he occupied with his father and two sisters and a brother was struck by a Pennsylvania train near here.

George Brechenrich, 53, who was driving, was injured seriously. The other three children, although thrown from the automobile were not seriously hurt.

Reduce Jury Fees

HILLSBORO, April 10—Reduction of the fees of grand and petit jurors in Highland county has been ordered by Common Pleas Judge W. Craig McBride. The jurors will receive $2 a day, instead of the $3 paid for years. No change was made in the three cent mileage allowance, however.

CANARY BIRD SEED BOTTLE MARCHES ON RITZ UNEXPECTED

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1933 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CANARY birds and bullfinches "perk up" and sing better, with the right kind of birdseed in their cages.

This glorious republic seems to perk up with the right kind of beer in its cage. In New York, one brewer delivered 18,000 kegs and 350,000 cases of beer on the first legal day. All the brewers' horses and all the brewers' men were not able to supply yesterday as much beer as the public demanded.

Those that worried about the old beer saloon may have more to worry about when beer is sold in 100 different kinds of shops. Perhaps, however, it wasn't beer, but whisky, the "back room" and the blackmailing that made the old saloon unpopular.

CHANCELLOR Hitler marches straight ahead. He makes himself head of all the German states, which the former kaiser never did. He was king of Prussia and was obliged to recognize the status of other kings, Bavaria, Wurtemberg, etc.

HITLER'S campaign against Jews which will hurt Germany's commercial future and her prosperity, continues, although, apparently, with less physical violence. Many Jews are deprived of their positions under the civil service, and all Jews are barred from such positions in the future.

Hitler proves himself a clever psychologist, telling Germans they really "won the big war" and "will certainly win the next war." He means that Germany won the war, commercially, and, removing from millions of Germans the humiliation of defeat, he is making them good fighters for the next time.

UNEXPECTED sorrow comes to gentlemen of an important national industry called "beer racketeering." They find that the public, even after years of bootleg endurance, can still tell the difference between beer properly made and abominable racketeer trash. The public demands real beer and speakases that have hitherto paid no attention to official matters are actually getting 32 licenses. Officials say that they will now close up speakases.

If they can do it now, why could they not do it before? And if they could have done it before but did not, why?

Every speakase is known to at least one official and probably to several.

MR. HULL, new secretary of state, says this country has been for 10 or 12 years one of the nations "chiefly responsible for economic nationalism, raising high tariffs and other barriers which have tended to strangle international trade."

Mr. Hull long opposed to high tariffs, wants the United States to join other countries in lowering rates. That, according to Mr. Hull, will be the great purpose of the economic conversations to which President Roosevelt has invited foreign statesmen.

AMERICAN workmen will be interested in those "economic conversations" and so will workers in foreign countries.

Already great American factories, manufacturing electric bulbs have been closed because American workers and manufacturers could not compete with Oriental countries.

If cutting tariffs can improve that situation many will be surprised.

CAR LOADINGS this week were better than last, by 18,738 cars. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., head of General Motors, reports sales better by 2,500 units than they were a year ago. Sales in foreign countries have increased which means hard work, with results, by salesmen.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Artificial flames used in a downtown furniture store to advertise a stove looked so real that passersby became alarmed and called the fire department. All downtown fire apparatus responded.

SALUTE

to the fine craftsmen of Ohio

Who live in Ohio may overlook the importance of our home state as an industrial and manufacturing center of the modern world. You will find no better products anywhere than those manufactured here by the skilled craftsmen who are so essentially a part of Ohio's continuing success.

Since the founding of our company 64 years ago we have consistently favored Ohio-made goods and Ohio merchants.

As a result of this purchasing policy, commodities and services are supplied to us by thousands of Ohio business concerns. The influence of these purchases affects, directly or indirectly, practically every family in Ohio.

We have every reason for "buying Ohio." Ohio workers are dependable. Their products are excellent. As members of the same commonwealth their destiny, our destiny, and yours, too, are all bound up together.

In the great Sohio refineries you will find Ohioans laboring for the same perfection in petroleum products, anxious to carry on the heritage of the Ohio craftsmen who started the refining industry here in our State.

The millions of dollars that the Standard Oil Company pays to these thousands of Ohio enterprises, plus the other tens of millions which it puts into circulation in the State of Ohio through such items as wages, rents and taxes, originate with the dimes and dollars that you spend at Sohio Service Stations.

Managers Enthusiastic As Opening Of Baseball Season Nears

Strengthened Indians Hopeful of Attaining American Loop Title

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 10.—The enthusiasm with which big league pilots approach the start of the 1933 pennant races was reflected today in the fact that no less than seven managers, including four in the National and three in the American league, figure they have a real chance to bring the flag-winner home in front.

It's a long and rocky drive for most of the clubs, from the rattle of the first base-hits this Wednesday until the October struggle for world championship honors, but there isn't a single manager among the chorus of 16 who does not strike a district note of optimism, based on increased power, new talent and harmony.

Bill Kelleher, of the St. Louis Browns, is the only one willing to name the winner. He picks the Yankees to repeat in the American league. The veteran Connie Mack thinks his Athletics have a "good chance to win" and there is no doubt of the confidence of Joe Cronin in the Washington club. Joe McCarthy, the Yankee chieftain, picks the Senators to furnish his "toughest opposition."

Over in the national strident tones of confidence can be heard from Charley Grimm of the Cubs, who says "we'll repeat." Gabby Street, who concedes no team a better chance to win than the Cardinals; Burt Shotton, who thinks his Phillies can win; and George Gibson, "well satisfied," even though he doesn't specifically acknowledge the quite general vote in favor of his Pirates.

Here's the way the rival managers size up the races in statements given to the Associated Press today:

American League:
Joe McCarthy, Yankees—"We have a strong club and face the season with plenty of confidence. However, when a club is on top every one of the others is trying to knock it down. The American league race will be anything but a joy ride. I think our toughest opposition will be the Senators."

Joe Cronin, Senators—"Washington, with its balance in all departments, is preparing to go into a more interesting race than we have had in years. Barring injury, I feel we shall be a contender for the flag."

Connie Mack, Athletics—"We have a good chance to win the pennant. I like this ball club and would not trade for any other in the league."

Billy Evans, Indians—"I think Cleveland is the most improved club in the league. We figure strong enough to be in the first division throughout and that gives us a chance to go places."

Bucky Harris, Tigers—"The Tigers are stronger than at any time I have been with the club, perhaps 10 or 12 games better last year, and should be among the first four at the finish."

Bill Kelleher, Browns—"I am confident I have a better club and that

Struthers to Play Spring Grid Tilts

STRUTHERS, April 10.—Struthers High is setting something unique in scholastic football circles as Coach Denny Schill today booked his second spring exhibition game.

Schill has South carded at the latter's grounds on May 13 while yesterday he booked a contest at Farrell on the night of May 19.

Schill has been working his lads indoors during the past week. The squad has few lettermen returning and the Struthers mentor aims to make the most of his spring work.

Interest in the South-Struthers game should bring about a big crowd.

Indians at Home

CLEVELAND, April 10.—Batting practice and plenty of it was the order for the Indians' first appearance of the season on their home stamping ground today.

The way the Cincinnati Reds trampled Cleveland 5 to 0 Saturday morning 5 to 4 Sunday emphasized the need for development of an offensive punch before the Wednesday and Thursday games at Detroit.

Cardinal MOSCOW, Idaho.—Where he came from, in Siberia, it is ok to beat your wife, Sam Pavash, of Bovill, Idaho, told arresting officers here after he had been held for beating his wife. But the judge wouldn't think so, and Pavash is now learning U. S. customs in jail.

THE GOOD OLD BASEBALL DAYS!

Hundreds of baseball's great names have been forgotten by the game's followers but that great Chicago Cub team of the years 1903 to 1912 will never vanish from the memories of the fandom of yesterday.

As pitchers the Cubs had Ed Reulbach, Mordecai Brown, Overall, Cole and White while Johnny Kling was the one and only catcher they carried. That was the team which had the greatest double play combination in history, "Tinkers to Evers to Chance."

Above is an old wood cut, picturing the Cubs famed double play triumvirate, playing in the old Cub stadium at Chicago.

Winona I. G. A. Stars Win Posts On All-Star Squad

Winona I. G. A. basketballers, winners of the Class B league championship, were awarded two positions in the first all-star team selected today by team managers and league officials.

One place each was awarded to St. Paul's Columbians, Baptists and Methodists.

Bennett, Odum Honored
Representing Winona on the all-star quintet are C. Bennett, former Canton McKinley High star, at guard.

Kaiser (Columbians) is Bennett's running-mate at the forwards with Courtney (Baptists) paired off with Odum at the defensive posts.

Sutter (Methodists), a classy all-around performer, was adjudged the best of the Class B pivots.

Second Team Stars
Second team honors went to Balta (Domings) and Frank Theriault (Methodists), forwards; Myron Whinnery (Winona), center, and Loschinsky (90) Taxis) and Ward (Winona), guards.

Ritchie (Sachsens), Keith Harris (Methodists), James Alaback (Columbians), Leonard Yates (90) Taxis), R. Snyder (Baptists), Jackson (Pottery) and Tolson (Pottery), honorable mention.

League officials and managers also selected all-star performers of the church leagues, one organization each placing one player on the first squad.

Zelle (Christians) and Veon (Trinity Lutherans) formed the forward combination; G. McCloskey (St. Paul's) is at center, and Ulrich (Emmanuel Lutherans) and Mullins (Methodists) are the guards.

On the Second Squad
C. McCloskey (St. Paul's) and Brantisch (Emmanuel Lutherans), forwards; Weigand (Methodists), and Chappell (Christians) and Joe Savolli DeRienzo (St. Paul's) were named for second team honors.

Honorable mention is given by Eakin (Methodists), Wagner (Emmanuel Lutherans), Hildebrand (Trinity Lutherans), Flash McSweeney (St. Paul's), Hammel

NEW COMMITTEE SET UP TO ACT ON CAGE RULES

Old Unit Dissolved; L. W. St. John Chosen To Head New Body

NEW YORK, April 10.—The playing code as revised last year has received tacit approval from the newly organized national basketball rules committee of the United States and Canada.

The committee, meeting for the first time here yesterday made several minor alterations in the rules, mostly for the purpose of clarification or simplification.

Dissolve Old Unit
In the absence of any startling changes, interest was centered on the committee itself, dominated as it was by the National Collegiate Athletic association and the National Collegiate Athletic association.

The new committee, succeeding the old joint basketball rules committee, consists of 19 members of whom 10 come from the N. C. A. A.; four from the high schools; two from the National Y. M. C. A. and one from Canada. The old committee of 36 members included 10 each from the N. C. A. A., A. A. U. and Y. M. C. A. and two each from the high schools, officials' association and Canada.

St. John Heads Body
L. W. St. John of Ohio State was elected chairman, Floyd Rowe of Cleveland, vice-chairman; George T. Hepburn, New York, secretary; A. E. Metzger, Rochester, N. Y., treasurer, and Oswald Tower, editor.

The most important of the rules changes include a decision to eliminate stalling, to courts of all sizes instead of confining it to courts of 60 feet or more, and an amendment to the rule on substitutions to permit a player to reenter the game twice, instead of only once.

Reds Will Tackle St. Paul In Final
CINCINNATI, April 10.—The Cincinnati Reds faced St. Paul of the American association today in their final game of the exhibition season. Bob Smith and Keith Frazier were slated for mound duty.

Approximately 2,500 fans, the largest crowd to watch the Reds this year, saw them defeat the Cleveland Indians, 5 to 4 yesterday in a ten-inning game. The day before they shut out the upstarters, 5 to 0.

Of 13 exhibition games with major league teams this season, the home town boys won eight and lost five, their best record in many years.

Cage Rules OK.
BOULDER, Colo.—Basketball coaches from coast to coast are generally well satisfied with the present rules, but would like to see a greater uniformity in interpretation. Coach Howard Beresford of the University of Colorado, learned this as the result of a questionnaire sent to coaches throughout the country. Coach Beresford is secretary-treasurer of the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Win Soccer Trophy
CINCINNATI, April 10.—The Dayton Edelweiss team captured the Gov. Myers V. Cooper Trophy by winning the Southern Ohio Soccer league championship the third time. The Daytonians defeated the Sun Life Insurance team of Cincinnati, 4 to 2.

Bill Knickerbocker, Cleveland Rookie, Shows Great Promise

INTRODUCING THE INDIANS

THREE YEARS ago, Bill Knickerbocker was playing sandlot ball at Los Angeles. Casey Stengel then manager of the Toledo club, was wintering on the coast. . . . He saw Knickerbocker play and liked the kid. . . . The finances of the Toledo club at that time was such Casey didn't care to guarantee railroad transportation to an untried sandlotter from Los Angeles to Toledo. . . . He agreed to give Knickerbocker a trial but put it up to Bill to reach training camp at his own expense.

THE story is, that Knickerbocker liked most of the way but reported on time. . . . He wasn't impressed but of course wasn't ready for so fast company as the American Association. . . . Once Toledo was out of the race, he was sent into the lineup. . . . He played all positions in the infield except first base. . . . Brought up as a shortstop, he hurt his throwing arm. . . . Should have been rested but was kept in the lineup at second base where the throw is short. . . . When Cleveland took over the Toledo club, Bob Falk managing the club, was instructed to keep Knickerbocker at short, regardless of how erratic he might be. . . . It was feared he wouldn't hit enough.

UNDER Stengel, Knickerbocker had used a peculiar stance at the plate. . . . A disciple of McGraw, Stengel was a great advocate of hitting behind the runner. . . . That means with a runner on first, he breaks for second and the batter tries to punch the ball through the spot vacated by the second baseman. . . . On the hit and run, with a right handed batter up, the second baseman always covers. . . . This system made Knickerbocker a dead right field hitter. . . .

AT NEW Orleans last spring, Manager Peckinpaugh changed his stance. . . . He was told simply to try to hit the ball regardless of where it went. . . . Last season, Knickerbocker after a slow start, was one of the most feared batters in the league. . . . He made 216 hits, broke the world record for two base hits with 69. . . . Bought for $15,600. . . . Toledo took the money out in players. . . . Knickerbocker will probably open the season at short for the Indians. . . . See him April 19 at the Stadium against Detroit.

land this summer, consists of Captain Walter Hagen, Sarazen, Ed Dudley, Densmore Shute, Olin Dutra, Paul Runyon, Craig Wood, Horton Smith and Leo Diegel.

The winner of the 1933 American open, assuming he is not one of those already named, will be added to the squad so that Burke still has an outside chance of making the trip abroad.

Sarazen Thinks P. G. A. Erred In Failure to Select Burke
(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 10.—Gene Sarazen thinks the professional golfer's association made a big mistake when it failed to name Bill Burke to the Ryder cup team but Albert R. Gates, business administrator of the P. G. A., insists the squad was named on the "fairest possible basis."

Sarazen declared Burke "ranks among the first five or six professionals" in this country and was entitled to a place on the team on the basis of his all-around ability and record.

"He seems to have been overlooked," the British and American open champion declared, "merely because he did not measure up last year to his sensational form of 1931 when he won the American open."

In reply to this criticism, Gates said that "Burke was far down on the list" in the balloting for places on the team by the P. G. A.'s executive committee and the 25 sectional presidents of the organization.

The team, selected to go to England this summer, consists of Captain Walter Hagen, Sarazen, Ed Dudley, Densmore Shute, Olin Dutra, Paul Runyon, Craig Wood, Horton Smith and Leo Diegel.

The winner of the 1933 American open, assuming he is not one of those already named, will be added to the squad so that Burke still has an outside chance of making the trip abroad.

Volley Ball Champ
DAYTON, O., April 10.—The Ohio Y. M. C. A. volleyball title was still in the possession of Springfield which has held it since 1927. Springfield retained the title yesterday by defeating Dayton in the finals of the annual tournament, 12-15, 15-11, 15-9.

ROCHESTER, Ind.—A record of 30 years without missing a Sunday school class is held here by Martin Ivey, attorney. For the past 17 years, he has taught a Methodist Bible class.

Post and Mattern Confer In Dayton

(By Associated Press)

DAYTON, O., April 10.—Wiley Post, who plotted the "Winnie Mae" around the world in record time, and James Mattern, who hopes soon to help break that mark, talked of the past and future today.

Post inspected the "Century of Progress" plane in which Mattern and his partner in the projected world speed flight, Bennett Griffin, have installed the same gasoline tanks that fed the motor of the "Winnie Mae" in its eight day, fifteen hour and fifty-one minute flight from New York to New York via lots of places in Europe and the far east.

Mattern is putting his plane through tests at Wright field in contemplation of the attempt to lower the record that Post, with Harold Gatty as navigator, blazed less than two years ago.

Post has no connection with the project, having come here in an airplane piloted by a "robot" which he will demonstrate to army air corps officials. He said he landed the controls only for twenty minutes on the flight from Brooklyn and that was when he prepared to land.

With his arrival reports were circulated that he might use the "automatic pilot" in an attempt to lower his own world girdling tour. Post, as usual, said nothing about his own plans.

The girl, they said, told them she changed her mind about dying after she had taken the poison and herself called police and opened the door for them when they came to her home. Her parents were away at the time.

Gets "D" In Study, Swallows Poison

CLEVELAND, April 10.—Shirley Suffens, 16-year-old Cleveland Heights high school sophomore was in serious condition today from poison police said she swallowed because of grief over a "D" received in a modern history class.

A telephone brings comfort and convenience to your home, is priceless in emergencies, yet costs only a few cents a day.

"Employees' Entrance" Ends Run at State; "Dangerously Yours" Coming

Warner Baxter and Miriam Jordan, who made her screen debut with him in "Six Hours to Live" are together again in "Dangerously Yours" which will have its first showing Tuesday at the State.

Herbert Mundin In Cast

Also prominent in the cast are Herbert Mundin, popular English comedian, seen most recently here in "Pleasure Cruise," Florence Eldridge (Mrs. Fredric March), Arthur Hoyt, Will Davidson, Florence Roberts and Nella Walker. "Dangerously Yours" was adapted for the talking screen from Paul Hervey Fox's novel by Horace Jackson, screen author of "Animal Kingdom," "Holiday," "Paris Bound" and "Sin Takes A Holiday"—all screen successes.

Baxter Is Society Crook

Briefly it revolves around the adventures of Baxter in the role of a suave society crook and Miss Jordan as a detective employed by an insurance company to protect its clients' jewels from such men as Baxter. The girl sleuth sets a clever trap for the wily thief, only to be outwitted and shanghaied aboard his yacht in which he puts out to sea.

Eventually she falls in love with the man she is supposed to bring to justice, and her solution of the problem supplies a surprising denouement to this fast-moving and clever story.

Injecting a colorful punch of human interest into what might ordinarily be considered the unappealing background of a great, modern department store, "Employees' Entrance" tells a story that

SALEM TEAM-OF-4 BRIDGE WINNER

Alliance and Lisbon Card Experts Take Part In Local Matches

Salem players captured first honors in a contract team-of-four bridge match at the Memorial building Friday evening. The match under the management of J. M. Kelley, drew four teams from Alliance and one from Lisbon, along with five local teams.

The team of Hostettler-Coburn-Windle-Kelley took first place and the next four places went to visiting teams.

Several additional teams are expected to be on hand Friday in the next match of the series. The team standings and pair scores follow:

Team-of-Four	Matches Won
Coburn-Hostettler and Windle-Kelley	12
Warner-Geiger and Grimes-Moreland (Alliance)	11
Ruff-Meck and Roderick-Shem (Alliance)	11
Kaulka-Henderson and Purcell-Garwood (Alliance)	10
Miller-Bowling and Steele-Humm (Lisbon)	10
Hartsock-Montgomery and L. Jones, Jr.-Heck	9 1/2
Mrs. Hostettler-Mrs. Holzbach and Mrs. Windle-Mrs. King	7 1/2
Mrs. Kelly-Ethel Woodruff and Miss Chandler-Zora Trotter	7 1/2
Springer-Faust and Auld-Keller (Alliance)	6 1/2
Mrs. Crowgey-Mrs. E. Heck and Dr. Crowgey-Dr. King	5

Pair Scores

North and South	Score
Coburn-Hostettler	80 1/2
Springer-Faust	72
Kaulka-Henderson	71 1/2
Hartsock-Montgomery	71
Miller-Bowling	67
Ruff-Meck	64 1/2
Mrs. Kelly-Ethel Woodruff	59
Warner-Geiger	59
Mrs. Crowgey-Mrs. Heck	57
Mrs. Holzbach-Mrs. Hostettler	48 1/2

East and West

Grimes-Moreland	Score
Windle-Kelley	83 1/2
Steele-Humm	78 1/2
L. Jones-Heck	68 1/2
Purcell-Garwood	68 1/2
Roderick-Shem	68
Mrs. Windle-Mrs. King	65
Miss Chandler-Mrs. Trotter	58
Auld-Keller	48
Dr. Crowgey-Dr. King	44 1/2

A peculiarity of team play was exemplified when each pair of the Hartsock-Jones and Montgomery-Heck team finished fourth but as a team-of-four finished sixth, while on the Alliance team neither Ruff and Meck nor Roderick and Shem could do better than sixth place as pairs, yet as a team-of-four ended in a tie for second place with their tournament.

The regular meeting of the American Legion auxiliary will be held at the Legion home, East State st., Tuesday night. All members are urged to attend.

O. S. U. Laboratory Solves Odor Problem

COLUMBUS, O., April 10.—The problem of dry cleaners—the odor which sometimes clings to freshly cleaned garments—has been solved by laboratory workers at Ohio State university.

Success in eliminating the odor, an announcement said, came after experiments conducted by J. N. Miller, holder of a fellowship.

The most frequent cause, Miller said, is a group of chemical compounds known as the lower fatty acids. The sources of these troublesome acids, he explained, "are twofold—the decomposition products of perspiration, etc., from soiled garments, and contaminants in curiously selected dry cleaning soap."

The experiments developed "practical methods for the determination of the lower acids and their removal."

WHY

WE COULDN'T DO without our PHONE

ONE of our customers* asked to have his telephone put back in. He said:

"We had the phone seven years, and hated to give it up. After we had it disconnected, I had to call the doctor three times after midnight.

"Every time meant a trip to the neighbors—every call a loss of vital minutes in getting our physician. Now I want the phone put back in. We cannot do without it."
